Delete ALL Temp Crack+

Delete ALL Temp is a simple script to delete temporary files from all users accounts on a Windows system. The script is designed to not only clear the temporary files, but all other temporary files as well, such as cookies, caches, and what not. The Windows temporary directory is the default location where temporary files are stored. This directory is also where the users' browser cache is stored. Temporary files are stored in this folder by default for 2 days, although temporary files can be deleted immediately if you want to, which is recommended. Important: Do not run this script if you are not administrator or if the Temp folder is on a removable media, like a USB drive. Do not run this script if you do not have administrator privileges. It is a simple and quick script and does not need any elevated permissions to run. If you do not want to use this script, please use the registry to delete the temp files instead. Please do not run this script if you do not know what it does. It does not delete important files and folders. If you do not know what a temporary file is, please refer to Wikipedia, or search the Internet for "how to delete temporary files in Windows". Delete ALL Temp can be run with or without an argument.
