The book contains the Ismaili Imams (through his chief son al-Muntakhab bi al-Lubnani) who from the view of Ismailis believed as the rightful successors to Ali b. Abi Taleb and whose stories was written in early Persian and later rediscovered by modern Ismaili scholars. The book is the longest compilation of biographies in any of the various Persian literature. The book contains 29 biographies of the Ismaili Imams from the first, Abu Bakr onward. It is the source for biographies of all but the latest 14 Imams except for the last 5. It is also the source for many oral traditions of early Ismailis. The book is a compendium of Imams' biographies and contains traditional narratives of their lives, their sayings and deeds; however it lacks the dates of events.
